Greetings potential employers and clients,

I see companies advertising for one or two specific web marketing or online advertising skills. We can find that all day long. Locally and globally. I connect companies with vendors, freelancers, service providers, and manage the process. Expensive or inexpensive.

I'm similar to a general contractor on the web, mobile, social media, plus I handle a lot myself. I manage and organize the entire marketing for companies. I put everything in your name, not mine. There are several layers of marketing that you probably aren't thinking about. We need to find the strategies that will try to maximize ROI. The biggest marketing strategy return may not currently be on your mind.

Results are not guaranteed. Use this information at your own risk. Verify everything yourself. Speak with a lawyer before you do anything on the web. There are a lot of factors out of my control, for example, the economy, competition, online reviews, etc. No guaranteed results.

I'll do my best. I'm one member of a team. I don't hold back. I share all my best strategies right out of the gate.

I was having a great experience providing web marketing for companies before the New York City police started harassing me, sabotaging me, and making up lies about me. I don't have a criminal record. I don't do anything illegal. I don't drink. I don't smoke. I don't do anything like that.

More about it here: <https://MarkPine.com>

Greetings,

The New York City police are harassing me. The New York City government won't help.

I don't have a criminal record. I don't do anything illegal. I don't drink. I don't smoke. I don't do anything like that. I'm fifty, healthy, and get a yearly physical.

I've contacted more than 1,000 government offices nationwide about New York City law enforcement harassing me. The NYC police are still harassing me.

I've called NYPD 911 thousands of times for years about the New York City police harassing me. I call police departments nationwide every day about New York City law enforcement harassing me.

Men I know pay the New York City police to harass people including me without any legitimate reason.

The New York City police have civilian women and men run around Manhattan in regular clothes harassing people including me. The New York City police have women and men in regular clothes crash into me, shove their phones in my face, blow drug smoke in my face, rob me, vandalize my property, and many more scams.

Everything I buy has rips, scratches, or some type of vandalism. I'm trying to get the NYC police to stop harassing me by contacting as many people as it takes.

If you have any idea how I can legally get the New York City police to stop harassing me please let me know.

Thank you and have a great day.

Core Skills

- Digital Marketing & Online Advertising
- Lead Generation & Sales Strategy
- Website & Brand Development
- Social Media Marketing
- Client Relationship
- Resilience Under Police Harassment

Police Brutality Victim

I don't have a criminal record. I don't do anything illegal. I don't drink. I don't smoke. I don't do anything like that. Civilian men that I know pay the New York City police to harass people including me without any legitimate reason. It's beyond ridiculous. The NYPD chased away many of my web marketing and online advertising clients.

The NYPD have sabotaged my career for more than a decade. Anytime I find an opportunity to earn money the NYPD tells the person or people who are thinking about conducting business with me either not to work with me or to help the police sabotage me further.

There is no reason to try to keep the police brutality against me a secret from potential employers. The New York City police have sabotaged dozens of my web marketing and online advertising clients. I've had former clients tell me the police told them not to do business with me. I've seen uniformed police sabotage my business relationships right in front of me.

Obviously, anyone who even thinks about helping me against the NYPD's orders should not be hiding anything illegal because the NYPD will find it.

I've received more than one hundred credit card payments from dozens of web marketing and online advertising clients before the police sabotaged my career. I don't want to jinx it although out of all those transactions I've only had one credit card chargeback for about $250. The person who called the credit card company and charged me back and I are on good terms again. I would probably be providing web marketing for the individual currently if the NYPD weren't harassing me.

I can't name the names of the civilian men who pay the NYPD to harass me because I'd be sued for defamation, libel, and slander. I know several civilians who are connected with law enforcement in New York and other states.

The New York City police have civilian women and men harass me in Manhattan while they supervise. For example, the NYPD have civilian women and men blow marijuana and vape smoke at me, crash into me, shove their phones in my face, try to start arguments with me, threaten me, rob me, vandalize my property, plus much more. If you think that's bad, what I'm leaving out is much worse.

If anyone reading this knows how I can legally get the New York City police to stop harassing me please let me know. It's very difficult for American police brutality victims to get help from the government and law enforcement. I've contacted hundreds of government and law enforcement offices in New York City and New York State and the New York City police are still harassing me.

There are several women married to police officers who are victims of domestic violence that the government and law enforcement aren't helping. It's well documented. "Officer involved domestic violence." There are police brutality victims in American prisons that aren't getting help. The police do a lot of good and bad. The bad is inexcusable.

Many people who work with me in person or on Zoom are impressed with my knowledge about web marketing and online advertising. Results are not guaranteed. I will do my best.

The New York City police have chased away dozens of my web marketing and online advertising clients over the years. I'm not giving up. I make the best of all situations. I'm trying to find jobs. In addition to looking for jobs, in my spare time I contact accredited investors to try to raise money for startups. For example, real estate, art, theater, food, etc.

Since the New York City police started harassing me, my phones, laptops, tablets, and other property has been stolen and vandalized more than one hundred times. I've been robbed, harassed, and had my property vandalized in the Financial District, Tribeca, West Village, Flatiron District, Chelsea, Murray Hill, Upper East Side, and Upper West Side. I have police reports, insurance documents, receipts, and other evidence to prove it. My cell phone was stolen six times in 2023 alone.
